Benefits of PacLease

Operational Efficiency

PacLease helps you maximize resources by eliminating variable truck ownership costs including maintenance, shop labor, technician training, fuel tax reporting and vehicle disposal. Proven maintenance programs keep your trucks in peak operating condition and our expert service network allows you to focus on your core business. With the industry's most advanced trucks spec'd to meet your needs, you can operate at maximum efficiency. In addition, your lease vehicles are equipped with the latest technology maintained by expert, factory-trained technicians.

Financial Benefits

Full service leasing through PacLease can provide additional financial benefits over ownership including reduction of your initial cash expenditure, improved cash flow management and no costly financial restrictions. Leasing allows you to accurately project transportation costs by eliminating unpredictable expenses associated with ownership including repair and maintenance. In addition, preservation of your company's credit lines enables you to reinvest valuable capital resources back into your business without bank imposed restrictions. When you add tax advantages associated with full-service leasing, it can be less expensive than owning your fleet.

The Right Tools

Unlike other leasing companies, PacLease does not take a "one-size-fits-all" approach. Trained transportation specialists help you identify the right tools for your application to achieve your business goals more efficiently. A computerized spec'ing program helps us custom design each vehicle with precisely the right components based on an analysis of your business needs. We then work with you to bundle custom services that will improve your business operation. We earn our value by increasing your efficiency with the highest quality trucks spec'd for your application and services tailored to your business.

Fleet Management

In addition to the highest quality trucks and an expert service network, PacLease offers programs that help you manage your fleet to reduce fuel costs and increase performance. PacLease services provide real time telematics vehicle monitoring and performance data, fuel discount networks and driver safety programs that help you create a foundation to improve route planning, driver behavior and fuel spending.

The Quality Advantage

As a multiple J.D. Power award recipient, Peterbilt offers driver comfort second to none and your drivers will appreciate the quality work environment your company provides. These premium trucks are designed with the use of Computational Fluid Dynamics and extensive wind tunnel testing, and its benefits are extensively documented through positive customer validation. Whether your application is long-haul, city delivery or vocational, PacLease will help you find the right model and configuration for your business. Your fleet should reflect your brand and nothing communicates quality as well as a Peterbilt. To ensure you always look your best, PacLease offers custom painting and truck washing services designed around your schedule.

Local Service, Global Reach

With PacLease locations across the United States, Canada, Mexico and Europe, we can provide short-term rentals, maintenance and other services where you need them.
